LEGACY PROJECTS

The Sportsmen's Club of Fort Worth dedicates its resources to many different local philanthropic causes across the community each year. Of its many unique and generous contributions, four tremendous legacy projects were recently completed at:

CAMP JOHN MARC

Partially funded by the Sportsmen's Club of Fort Worth, the revamped fishing pier replaces the previous small wooden structure with a strategically designed well-built jetty, complete with bright lights that illuminate the area during nighttime fishing and a shaded area to protect fishermen and women from heavy rainstorms and the strong summer sun. Children who use electricity-powered machines to manage their diagnoses, like BiPAP breathing machines or peritoneal dialysis machines for example, are now able to lay next to new friends on sleeping bags on cool summer nights, connect with each other over their similar experiences, and teach one another about shooting stars and constellations.

CAMP EL TESORO

Between hikes in nature trails surrounded by birds and butterflies and sleepovers on the swinging bridge above Fall Creek, campers at El Tesoro can now also enjoy the two new archery ranges donated by the Sportsmen's Club of Fort Worth. Camp El Tesoro offers many opportunities throughout the year to both children and adults, including family camping, spring break events, outdoor education lessons, and even a unique one-week program to help children grieving the loss of a family member. The addition of the two new archery ranges gives all of these campers the opportunity to unplug from technology, escape from stress, and practice a sport that promotes socialization, growth, and self-confidence.

YMCA CAMP CARTER

The addition of two spectacular archery ranges makes a wonderful impact on the entire outdoor experience for children and their families at YMCA Camp Carter. With the considerable donations made by the Sportsmen's Club of Fort Worth, the archery area was able to transform from just a bale of hay with a red spray-painted dot in the center and a few arrows laying in a bucket, to a truly phenomenal and impressive space. Complete with two state-of-the-art ranges and an efficiently designed equipment closet, the generous contributions make archery a more structured and rewarding experience for eager campers.

TEXAS PYTHIAN HOME

The Texas Pythian Home is on Lake Weatherford and has been a special spot for children to learn about wildlife and the outdoors. However, over the years the cabin became worn out and in need of a long-overdue gutting and remodel to offer its full potential to children and families. With the recent cabin renovations and the added donation of a brand-new fishing dock, the lake lot now has more opportunities than ever for families and friends to spend safe and exciting fun together and make unforgettable memories thanks to the contributions of the Sportsmen's Club of Fort Worth.
